This course is open to anyone, regardless of teaching/playing experience

Do you love playing chess and want to help others improve their game? Or do you know little about the game but want to find a new career or further your PSD? Then learn how to teach chess and attend CSC's first introductory course for chess trainers in Bristol.

The course is run by Chess in Schools and Communities, a registered charity that works in 100 schools around the UK and was recently featured on BBC Breakfast <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/education-13343943>. The course is aimed at teachers, teaching assistants, parents or anyone planning on teaching chess in schools and wants to learn how to play and teach the game.

The course will consist of the following modules:

- * Benefits of chess
- * A brief history of chess & chess champions
- * Overview of Junior chess in the UK
- * Primary school CSC chess syllabus - an overview
- * Cross-curricular links
- * Techniques for teaching chess
- * Chess sub-games and variants
- * Running a school chess club
- * Resources and materials
- * Pieces, moves, captures, checks and checkmates – practical
